ERRORS AND OMISSIONS

In the compilation of a work of this kind, data is obtained from many sources. This data in many cases is recorded in family bibles, public records, etc. Often the penmanship—none too good when done—has, with the passing years, become difficult to read. Every possible effort has been made to reconcile all differences and secure the actual facts. Notwithstanding, errors and omissions will be discovered. We will appreciate hearing of any such, so that the corrected data may be printed in a later volume.

Michael Wilbore[3], Thomas[2], William[1], of the Parish of Arksey in Bentley and later of Pondes in Clavering, Essex County, and of the Inner Temple, London. He held land in Pontefracte, Arksey, Doncaster, Clavering, Essex, and many other places. He was a lawyer of the Inner Temple, London. In 1544 Michael Wilbore bought the old Wilbore place in Doncaster from Henry the Eighth and it remained in the Wilbore family for over two hundred years. This place is on the left as you enter Doncaster from the north over the old Mill Bridge, and is really in the town of Bentley, but seems to be a part of Doncaster, as it is about the end of the city.

According to Mr. Holmes, "Michael Wilbore married Philippa Bradbury and although he retained his Kellington property his interests in the north seem towards the latter part of his life to have been gradually ceasing, but by the death of his father Thomas Wilbore in 1550, he inherited considerable property both in Arksey and in other parts of Yorkshire, on which, leaving his wife in Essex, he came northward in the summer of 1551 to settle the affairs of his deceased parent. While in his northern home, at Arksey, he was seized with a sudden fatal illness and there he died, leaving three sons, the eldest Thomas being a child of but eight years old."

Children (Wilbore or Welbore):

1. Thomas, born 1542, or was eight years only in 1550; married Ursula Danvers.
2. Philip, married Ann Walters.
3. Samuel, married Katherine Holte (?).

Thomas Wilbore[4], Michael[3], Thomas[2], William[1], of Pondes in Clavering, Essex, married Ursula Danvers, daughter of Silvester Danvers of Dauntsey, by his wife Elizabeth, daughter of Lord Maudant. This family traces back to the famous old Courtney family of England. Ursula died in 1591 on St. Steven's Day. They are buried in the church at Pondes in Clavering near the altar and have a large slate slab set in the floor. On this stone are engravings in brass of Thomas and his wife, with one son and five daughters, all in Elizabethan dress. The husband and wife are kneeling on each side of a small table or altar and one son, probably Samuel, who died in 1560, is back of the father, the five daughters are behind the mother.

According to the baptismal register of Clavering, examined in 1923, they had the following children; no will of Thomas having been found.

Children (Welbore):

Samuel, buried April, 1560.

Mary, baptized September 4, 1576.

The above Mathew sold land at Kellingly after his father's death in 1579. He was a graduate of Cambridge College and probably went to Hertfordshire. His grandfather Michael held land at Stanstead Abbotts of that county.

Philip Wilbore[4], Michael[3], Thomas[2], William[1], was of Foxton in the County of Cambridge, not far from the college of Cambridge, married Ann Walters, daughter of William, of Norfolk, who died 1624. His burial at St. Edwards, Cambridge, is recorded March 18, 1615.

The coat of arms of Philip Wilbore of Foxton is given in the British Museum (see Manuscript No. 6774, fo. 35, page 18). His arms are quartered with some other family. In the left-hand upper corner are the Wilbore boars of silver with a black background. The left-hand lower corner has a gold cross with a red background. The lower right-hand corner is black and the upper right-hand corner is of two wide stripes, one white and the other red. Like his father he spells his name Welbore.

The history of Foxton has the following about the Wilbores there: "There are many manors of the Mortimers and Wimbishs that were held between Henry Pallavicini and Philip Wilbore, whose descendants had possession in it for two centuries or more."

On a marble stone in the churchyard is engraved the name "Philip Wilbore," where he was interred the 12th of March, 1651. "He served God and relieved the poor; We know he is not lost but sent before. His friends are left, his absence do deplore; Nor can his virtues ever be forgot. Though in this grave his corpse be left to rot."

The manor of Wimbish was held by the family of that name for some generations but was sold during the reign of Henry the Eighth, when it came into the possession of Francis Norton, of Norton, Lincolnshire, and he sold it. It was then divided into three parts, of which Sir Toby Palavicini had the Royalty called Foxton Wimbish, the Wilbores had the second part and the family of Campion the third.

The family of Wilbores was settled in Foxton for two centuries and one of them, Philip Wilbore, had a tomb in the church, with the arms, sable on a fesse between two savage boars passant. Argent A Pheon for difference, paled with Argent Gutte' de sang, two swords in salbaire gu. over all a Lion rampant Sab. for Walters.

See "History of Knottingly." In this book are given two sketches of the old hall now demolished. The "History of Knottingly" says:

"On page 43 is a view of the old hall and another view in the front of the book. It was held by the Knottingly Wilbores and stood where now the town quarry is, the back part abutting on the churchyard. A drawing taken before its demolition represents it as a very old building and a superior mansion, partly timber built and of a style earlier than the Elizabethan. It was the residence of the Wildbores and had a figure of a wild boar over the doorway. Afterwards the Atkinsons had it and then it was purchased by Maulong, who for several years kept it in good repair until in consequence of some family arrangement it became the property of his brother, who after letting it in tenements, one of which was used as a prison, pulled the whole down for the sake of the limestone beneath. Now not even the ground on which it stood remains to mark the site of this once fine ornament of the town."

Thomas Wilbore[3], Richard[2], William[1], of Knottingly, made his will September 23, 1612, and it was proved January 9, 1612/3. This will is printed in the "Black Friars of Pontefracte" in full. I give it but briefly here:

All lands and tenements to his wife Jane Wilbore, and after her to his son John Wilbore and his heirs, and if none to his son Richard Wilbore and his issue, and if there are none to his son Gilbert Wilbore, or Thomas's third son. To daughter Elizabeth Wilbore two hundred pounds lawful money. To children Richard, Gilbert and Barbara Wilbore their "Childes Porcons." The rest and residue to his wife Jane Wilbore.

Both in the register of the church at Tinwell and at Ufford there are records relative to the Wilbore family. Arms, Argent, a chevron between three boars passant.

John Wilbor, clerk, S. T. B., was president of Sidney College, Cambridge, and was presented by Thomas Earl of Exeter to the rectory of Tinwell, September 15, 1616. (See "History of Rutland," page 86; also the East Anglican Magazine, 1866-1869, page 185.) In the church at St. Georges is a monument to John Wilbore.

A tomb of John Wildbore, who is buried at Kirby-Cum-Osgodby, County Lincoln, may be seen in the church there. (See Gervase Holles's church notes, taken about 1640.)

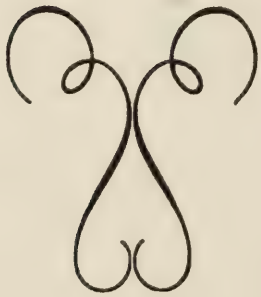
"There are other monuments in the quire much defaced when the quire was taken down."

Another branch of the Wilbore family in England lived in and around Peterboro Cathedral, not only in Peterboro, but in the surrounding towns, such as Castor and Glinton, and others in Northamptonshire. The parish records of St. John in Peterboro—that is, the marriages, baptisms and burials—have been published, and we have a copy of these. The author says of the Wildbore family of this place that they were "a family, once of importance, now extinct." The first entry of the Wildbore name is that of Edward Wildbore, buried April 12, 1561. Mathew Wildbore was twice member of Parliament from this city.

The parish registers of Glinton and Castor have been partly published—that is, the marriages have.

It is said that there are many tombstones of the Wilbores now in existence at Peterboro, some of which have the Wilbore coat of arms. Mary, Queen of Scots, was buried here in the Cathedral.



SAMUEL WILBORE, JR.

By Benjamin Franklin Wilbour, Little Compton, R. I.

Samuel Wilbore, Jr., the son of Samuel Wilbore, the emigrant, was born in England in 1614 and came to America with his father and lived in Boston until the migration of the family in 1638 to Portsmouth, R. I. When Samuel Sr. returned to Boston about the year 1645, Samuel Jr. did not return with him, but remained in Portsmouth as did his cousin William Sr., on land he and his father had purchased there. For the remainder of his life he made this town his home. He there married Hannah Porter, daughter of John and Margaret (———) Porter, and had six children by her—five daughters and one son, John Wilbore, who died without issue September 29, 1710. As his only son died so early in life, Samuel Jr. has no descendants in the male line, but has many of other family names, such as the Arnolds, Clarkes, Brownings, Formans and many others.

He seems to have stood high in the community and was much respected, for at some of the meetings in Portsmouth he is styled Mr.—a title, at that time, given to only a few—and at one of the meetings, among a list of quite a number of men, he was the only one thus addressed. Also, his daughters married into families of influence and education, such as the Clarks and Arnolds; it was rare, at this early date, that people married out of their class.

We find that his name is spelled many different ways in the Portsmouth records —the first name being spelled Samuell, Samel, Samell, Samull and Samuel, and the last name is variously given as Wilbure, Wilbor, Wilbour, Willbore, Wilbore and Wildbore. This proves nothing, except that it was written by several different town clerks, no two of whom spelled the name alike. Samuel Jr. himself spelled it Samuall Wilbore, as did his father.

He is also addressed by different military titles at various times, such as Ensign Wilbore, Lieutenant Wilbore and lastly, in 1676, as Captain Samuel Wilbore.

On November 21, 1649, according to the Portsmouth records, he was drawn as a juror, and again on July 8, 1653.

On April 1, 1653, the records of the town have the following:

"It is ordered that Mr Sanford, Mr Baulston, Mr Porter, Capt Morris, Lieut. Albro, Ensign Samuel Wilbore and Philip Sherman or any fower of them consenting, shall consult and determine all matters of defence and offense."

On January 3, 1655, he was juryman at the court at Warwick.

On April 8, 1656, "Lieutennant Wilbore, William Baulston, Captain Richard Morris, Capt Thomas Cooke, James Babcock, William Brayton and Francis Brayton are chosen to go over to the Mayne land to treat with the Indian Sachems to informe them of the mynd of the towne, that they come not upon the Island."

January 20, 1657, he became one of the five purchasers of what is now the town of South Kingstown, R. I., in what is known as the "Pettiquamscutt Purchase." The following is copied from Judge Elisha Potter's history of Narragansett, page 275:

"January 20, 1657. Qussaquanch, Kachansquant and Quequaquenuet, Chief Sachems of Naragansett, for 16 pounds and other reasons mentioned in the deed, sell to Sam. Wilbore, John Hull of Boston, Goldsmith, John Porter, Sam. Wilson and Thomas Mumford, all the land and the whole hill called Pettaquamscutt, bounded on the south and south west of the rock with Ninegret's land, on the east with a River, northerly bounded two miles beyond, the great rock in Pettequamscutt, westerly bounded by a running brook or river beyond the meadow, together with all manner of mines etc."

On the 24th of June, 1660, another deed was signed, conveying to the above men another lot of land after confirming the first deed. This second purchase was bounded as follows:

"Beginning two miles from the Pettiquamscutt rock, north, and running to the head of the great River 40 rod and goeth northerly from the Pettiquamscutt rock and turneth Northeast and from said head goes north and northwest by a river called Monassachuett, ten miles and from that bound turns and runs west by south ten or twelve miles on a square and what it wants north to be made up, Etc.

"Witnesses:

"William (X) Wilbore.

John Round.

"Mathew (X) Wilbore."

There were several others who also signed.

It will be seen that in the first deed, one of the purchasers was John Porter, the father-in-law of Samuel Wilbore, Jr., and John Hull of Boston, whose wife's father was the maker of Pine tree shillings, and who, on her wedding day, gave his daughter for her dower her weight in the before mentioned pine tree shillings. The second deed has for witnesses two men of much interest to the Wilbor family, one of whom is quite a puzzle. In the first we recognize William Wilbore of Portsmouth, cousin of Samuel Jr. The third signer's name, Mathew Wilbore, is rather remarkable, as this is the only place that his name has ever been seen. At so early a date as 1660, this name is rather significant, for he must have been related to the Wilbores, but who was he and where did he disappear to? He probably either very soon died in America or returned to England and may have been the missing father of William of Portsmouth.

Now, returning to the Pettiquamscutt Purchase. This purchase was a very important and large one, consisting of several thousand acres, showing that the men of this transaction to be men of property and much influence.

Samuel Wilbore, Jr., later had several pieces of land laid out to him in this tract, among which was lot number three in what was then called the Hills tract. This land, consisting of two hundred acres, was bounded south and east by the road, west by the Chepuxet river and north by lot number four, which was laid out to Thomas Wilson. This land is now in Kingston village. On the north side of the Main street and bounded east by the Tower Hill road. The Rhode Island Agricultural College is now situated on this lot and after Samuel Jr. died, it was sold by his heirs, in 1684, to Mr. Robert Potter, the son of Robert and Elizabeth (Cole) Potter, and was for many years in the Potter family and called the "Judge Robert Potter Farm."

On March 2, 1657/8, Samuel Jr. was commissioner to the general court. On June 7, 1658, he was elected to the town council of Portsmouth.

The following appears in the records of the town, dated May 12, 1659:

"If Samuel Wilbore cannot goe to the court, Mr Baulston is to hire his boat or some other, where he can be paid out of the treasury."

On August 9, 1660, he was elected commissioner to the general court of the several towns.

The following appears in Potter's History of Narragansett. This was a protest, which some of the Indians were induced, probably by the interest of other persons, to make against the Pettiquamscutt purchasers. (Massachusetts Records, third volume. Extracts of the R. I. Historical Society, Section 1, page 146):

"Wemosit, otherwise Suckquanish, Ninicraft, Quequàkanut, otherwise Gideon, chief Sachems of the Narragansett and Neantick countries, having received much injury by Samuel Wilbore and others of his company, they pretending title to Point Jude (Point Judith) and other lands adjoining and have endeavored to possess themselves forcibly of the same, both by building and bringing cattle, we having given them warning to the contrary, and they not taking warning, now endeavored to drive their cattle from the land, but they resisted and one of them presumed to shot off a gun at us. Now we knowing we have not sold them any land there, and being thus injurously dealt withal by them, we are forced to make our complaint to yourselves, the commissioners of the United Colonies, hereby protesting against the said Samuel Wilbore and Company, for their so unjust actings and crave that this our protest may be received by you and kept upon records with you as our acts and deeds, and crave that it may not be offensive to any English, if the said Samuel Wilbore and his company will not come to any faire trial, either before yourselves or some other indifferent judges, if then we endeavor to drive their cattle away or take any course whereby we may dispossess them. That this our acte and deed we have put to our marks and seales in the presence of these witnesses, this Sept 9 1662.

"Nincraft.
"Quequequesewet alias Gideon.
"Scutabe and Mosipe alias Susquansh."

In 1663, Dr. John Clarke obtained an important charter which was issued to Samuel Jr. and others. The History of Rhode Island has this to say about this charter, granted by King Charles the Second, to the settlers of Aquidneck:

"A new era now opens in the history of Rhode Island, of which the towns now of Newport County then constituted the principal part. The charter of 1663 was so liberal and complete in its provisions and so perfectly in accord with the sentiments of the colony that it remained in force during the remainder of the colonial period, and was accepted as the foundation of the state government down to the adoption of the constitution of 1842.

"It begins with the following recital: 'Charles the Second, by the Grace of God, King of England, Scotland, France and Ireland, Defender of the Faith, Etc., to all to whom these presents shall come, Greeting, Whereas, we have been informed by the humble petition of our trusty and well beloved subject, John Clarke, on the behalf of Benjamin Arnold,' etc. This document contained the names of twenty-four of the settlers, including Coddington, Samuel Gorton, Roger Williams and Samuel Wilbore Jr., and was without doubt the most liberal charter that had ever been given by any King of England, up to this time."

On March 21, 1665/6, it was voted, "That Mr William Baulston, Mr Samuell Wilbore, Mr John Brigs shall repair to Mr John Clarke and treate with him aboute the paiment of the affore said 100 rate and bringe his answer to ye towne."

On February 26, 1665/6, Samuel Jr. was moderator of the town council, and on June 4, 1666, he was elected general assistant to the town clerk of Portsmouth.

On August 10, 1667, he enlisted in a troop of horse.

At a meeting of the Pettiquamscutt proprietors, held June 4, 1668, it was agreed, "That all deeds, draughts and writings, belonging to the said partners that are in the hands of Mr John Porter are to be demanded and received by Samuel Wilbore."

The town records have the following dated March 29, 1669:

"Voated. That seven men are chossen to meete on Thursday next it beinge ye first of Aprill to draw up sume propositions about the fferey to be presented to ye next towne meeting at ye house of Mr William Baulstone on Monday next, beinge ye fifth of Aprill. The men chossen were Philip Sherman, William Wodell, William Hall, Mr Samuel Wilbore, Captain John Sanford, Mr John Tripp and Thomas Cornell ye seventh man."

On October 14, 1676, he deeded to his daughter Hannah Clarke, wife of Latham Clarke, 500 acres of land in the Narragansett country.

August 24, 1676, he was a member of the court martial held at Newport for the trial of certain Indians charged with being engaged in King Philip's design. Several of the Indians were sentenced to death.

Samuel Jr. held the following offices in the town of Portsmouth: Juryman, 1649, 1653, 1655, 1656, 1661, 1662 and 1664; member of the town council, 1658, 1666 and 1667; overseer of the poor, 1668 and 1671; deputy to the general assembly, 1664, 1665, 1669 and 1675; moderator of town meetings, 1674, 1677 and 1678; commissioner to the general court, 1656, 1658, 1660 and 1663; assistant to the town clerk of Portsmouth, 1665, 1666, 1667, 1668, 1669, 1677 and 1678.

His will was made on August 21, 1678, and is given as follows:

In the name of God Amen, I, Samuel Wilbore, inhabitant in the town of Portsmouth on Rhode Island, in the colony of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, being att present sick in body, yet in perfect mind and memory, I bless God, this being my last will and testament.

I doe give and bequeath my soul to Almighty God, everlasting, from whom I received my first being, and my body to the earth from whence it came, to be buried Christianlike, and all my personal estate I bequeath and dispose of in manner and forme following:

Imp. Samuel Wilbore (Seal)

The above will is one which has caused much attention, for it has explained, to a certain extent, the relationship of William Wilbore of Portsmouth to the rest of the Wilbore family. It, at any rate, proves that he was not the son of the first Samuel, but probably his nephew, for it says, "I doe give and bequeath to my cousin William Wilbore Sen. 250 acres of land in the Narragansett countrey," etc. This will also mentions William again, once more calling him cousin, and requests that he be one of the caretakers or overseers of the will with Latham Clarke. It will be noted also that Anna, the daughter of a brother of Samuel Jr., is also mentioned as cousin, although she was really his niece as the term is used today, so that after all it makes William's degree of relationship rather uncertain.

The only other name in this will of whom we have little knowledge is that of Francis Gisbourne. Whether he was a relative of the maker of this will is a matter of conjecture.

The land that he gives to his wife Hannah Wilbore, is shown on the old map of the first settlement of Portsmouth, which is now to be seen at the town hall of that place. Most of Samuel Jr.'s land seems to have been on the west side of the road leading from the Mount Hope bridge to Newport and was near that of his cousin William Wilbore Sr., whose land was between the road and the river.

Samuel Wilbore Jr. died at Portsmouth in 1677/8 and his will was proved on November 7, 1710, leaving a widow, Hannah Wilbore, and five children—all of whom were daughters. The date of his death is shown to have been at this time because the inventory of his estate was taken a few months after he signed his will. Why his will was not proved until twenty years after has not been explained. Possibly it was lost.

The following is the inventory of his estate. This is an original paper and is kept at the town clerk's office at Portsmouth:

This 30th day of February 1677-78.

Captain Caleb Arnold and Abigail his wife, Samuel Clarke son of Latham Clarke and Hannah his wife, all of Portsmouth, Rebecca Browning of Kingstown, Narragansett County, Samuel Forman and Mary Forman his wife of town of Freehold, in the county of Monmouth in the eastern division (Now called New Jersey) and Morris Freelove and Elizabeth his wife in the town of Freetown, county of Bristol, heirs of their brother John Wilbore, for 300 pds, paid by William Burrington of Portsmouth, Jr., sell land which John Wilbore purchased of Thomas Sherman and is 51 acres bounded North by John Anthony and Thos. Durfee Jr., East by sd Thos. Durfee and Enoch Briggs and Daniel Wilcox, South by Daniel Wilcox and partly by undivided land and west by the highway and also land on Hog Island purchased by John Wilbore from Thomas Sherman and belonged formerly to Philip Sherman.

In the year 1680, Hannah Wilbor was taxed ten shillings. This was evidently his widow, and February 13, 1712, after the death of their son John Wilbore, the widow Hannah confirmed her husband's will in regard to her three youngest daughters, sisters of John, who were to have his part if he died without issue. And she now confirms to the "survisors of my three youngest daughters and their Heirs." The administration of the estate of Hannah Wilbore, widow, took place April 9, 1722. Inventory: 143 pds., 14 shillings and 9 pence.
